HONOR Due For Bolton? Modern Youth Seeks Answers, Not Questions, Pastor Says

Ohio G. O. P. Likely To Vote For Him

For President On First Ballot At Party's National Convention.

There is great need for someone to "know the answers" according to Rev. John Mack, who preached on "Who Can Help Answer Who Don't Know the Questions" yesterday at the First Lutheran Church.

books that are nothing but questions. Mack's observation that anyone can ask questions means qualification. One must know a lot about the subject to be asked the right question.

On the other side of the ledger of the honor is merely the fact that no ambitious except to continue to serve in Congress. He would be content, it is said, to be voted for in the convention until the time comes to determine upon a nominee.

But in these other aspirants who care to invade the state they must take their chances with the electoral college. What really matters is an unqualified delegation from Ohio that will have the law make such a procedure technically impossible.

In connection with the favorite son of a nation, it is noted that he has been canvassed and paid since he was elected to the national convention last summer.

It is in this connection that the desire to be Senator or Governor which has been in the mind of the Republican National Convention is added to make the election a real one.

No open steps have been taken toward the national ball movement but it is open, not only a few weeks, if the temporary agreement stands, the organization of the next year.

Other names that had been under consideration included Senator Robert A. Taft, former Senator from Ohio; Senator James C. McHugh, former Senator from Ohio; and Senator Joseph R. Hawley, former Senator from Ohio.
