For 48 hours he remained in hiding without food, but finally made his way to the home of a Negro preacher who contacted officers and arranged the surrender. Bush has denied the charges against him.

Warden Hugh Wilson of North Carolina's Central Prison said 24-year-old Godwin "Buddy" Bush, accused of attempted attack upon a young white woman at Rich Square last Thursday night, slept well last night and ate ravenously.

The hungry, six-foot Negro was brought to central prison last night for safekeeping after his surrender into the FBI protective custody. Meanwhile, state and federal officers set out to learn the identities of the armed men who took Bush from the Northampton jail at Jackson.

Before sun-up today another Negro, Bill Simmons, 24, was brought to Central Prison and locked up on a charge of attacking a white woman last night at Clinton in Sampson county.

Mean while, a 20-year-old Negro, Willie Pooler, is being held in the South Carolina penitentiary at Columbia for safekeeping. He was arrested last night on a charge of attacking an elderly white woman at Darlington, S. C.

Investigators tonight refused to disclose the course or extent of their inquiries into the snatching of Bush from the Jackson jail. District Solicitor Ernest Tyler said at Richmond, Va., where he had gone for an extradition hearing, said that "I must decline to answer that" when asked if any leads had been developed on the identity of the mob members.

WOMEN SMOKERS CURBED BY RULES More Restrictions In Offices Present Hurdle, Report Shows

CINCINNATI, May 26—(AP)—Women have only one hurdle to clear completely before they enjoy the same privileges accorded men as office personnel, a report studied at the 28th annual convention of the National Office Management association indicated today.

Negro Escapee From Mob Safe In Cell As Mobsters Hunted

RALEIGH, N. C., May 26—(AP)—A hard-running Negro sawmill worker who jerked loose from masked mobsters and bolted into hiding in a pine thicket before dawn last Friday lay safely in a prison cell tonight as federal and state officers began a hunt for white men who took him at gunpoint from jail.

Warden Hugh Wilson of North Carolina's Central Prison said 24-year-old Godwin "Buddy" Bush, accused of attempted attack upon a young white woman at Rich Square last Thursday night, slept well last night and ate ravenously.

Swindle Charged Ohio Architect

COLUMBUS, O., May 26—(AP)—Franklin county deputies arrested a 59-year-old suburban architect today in what an assistant prosecutor called a war veterans' land swindle.

Harrison M. Boyd, identified by Assistant Prosecutor William C. Bryant as a landscape architect of Worthington, pleaded innocent before Common Pleas Judge Cecil Randall and was released under $2,500 bond.

Boyd was accused in a 10-count indictment of obtaining money under false pretenses and of signing land contracts under false pretenses.

Bryant said veterans were sold lots in a new subdivision with the understanding federal housing administration would buy 80 per cent of a lot of houses to be built with the remainder to be guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

The assistant prosecutor said VA had never heard of the lot sales and FHA said it would approve loans only if $1,000 in improvements were added to the individual tracts.

The indictment against Boyd was returned secretly last Tuesday.

IDAHO VILLAGE SMITHIES HELP ON POTATO CROP

IDAHO FALLS, Ida. (AP)—The typical village blacksmith here—in the heart of Idaho's potato producing area—has taken time out from shoeing horses to tinker together mechanical potato picking machines, or "combines," as the natives call them.

A survey by William R. Hatch, president of the Bonneville County Farm Labor association, shows there are about as many types of machines as there are blacksmith shops. Hatch says the machines—which take back-bending out of harvesting—are somewhat successful... but still need improvement.

Most combines are essentially extensions of the old conventional potato digger. FRENCH NAMED DAYTON SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT
